

GENERAL CONDITIONS FOR TESTING SERVICES

1. Area of application, definitions, execution of the agreement; important documents

- 1.1. These General Conditions shall apply to any agreements entered into between FGH Engineering & Test GmbH (hereinafter, "FGH") - as German subsidiary of the Italian company CESI S.p.A. - and the client (hereinafter "Client"; FGH and the Client hereinafter respectively referred to as the "Party" or, collectively, the "Parties") for the performance of testing services ("Testing Services", hereinafter, also called "Services" or "Tests").
- 1.2. Testing Services consist of experimental laboratory activities and services, based on methods and programs contractually agreed; it is understood that FGH is hereby authorized to perform the required Tests, in its subsidiaries' laboratories or in other third parties' primary and guaranteed qualified laboratories.
- 1.3. Upon receipt of the Client request for Services, FGH shall issue a quotation (hereinafter "Quotation"), including specific terms and conditions for the performance of the Testing Services and these General Conditions as well. The agreement for the said Services (hereinafter "Service Agreement" or "Agreement") shall be considered as executed once the Client shall duly countersign FGH Quotation. The signing of the Service Agreement shall be followed by the FGH definitive reservation (hereinafter "Definitive Reservation"), by means of which FGH shall provide the Client with detailed and binding information on specific scheduled date and timing for the performance of the Tests. Any agreement reached by the Parties prior to the Service Agreement shall be intended as mere draft, leaving the Parties free to withdraw from negotiations.
- 1.4. The Service Agreement shall therefore consist of the following documents, which - together with the other enclosures - shall constitute integral and substantial part of the Agreement:
 - the Definitive Reservation;
 - FGH Quotation, duly countersigned by the Client;
 - these General Conditions;
 - any enclosures and other specific documents mentioned in the Quotation.In case of any discrepancy and/or inconsistency between the above documents, each document shall prevail on the following in the order given above, unless otherwise specified.

2. Reservations, renunciation, delays

- 2.1. Non-definitive reservations, even though accompanied by draft covenants pursuant to art. 1.3 above (e.g. FGH proposals on possible date and timing, aimed at verifying Client's availability), shall be neither binding for FGH nor for the Client. Should the Quotation, concerning specific Testing Services conditions, be irrevocable until a set date, or should the Client be asked to countersign it by a set date, the said Quotation shall be definitely considered as expired on the indicated date and negotiations shall be terminated if the Client should not accept within the said date.

Once issued the Definitive Reservation, should the Client request a modification to the Services commencement date thereby scheduled, FGH shall be free to determine whether or not to agree with the said request. Should FGH not join the said request the scheduled commencement date shall remain effective. In case of cancellation of the Services by the Client, due to whatever reason (excepting default on FGH's behalf), the latter shall be considered in default and FGH may lawfully terminate the Service Agreement for good cause without setting a period for remedy of such default pursuant to Section 323 para. 2 German Civil Code. It being understood that FGH shall consequently be entitled to apply to the Client the penalties defined in the Service Agreement as well as to claim for further possible damages suffered by FGH, also depending on the advance period given by the Client. FGH's statutory rights, in particular to claim damages and the refund of any borne expenses, shall remain unaffected.

- 2.2. Services execution terms are established in the exclusive interest of FGH. In any case, with no prejudice to the provisions set forth in article 9 below as per FGH's liabilities, the latter shall not be liable for Tests delays, postponements or interruptions, even due to laboratory and equipment operations and/or maintenance needs.

3. Additional obligations

- 3.1. All additional duties and charges (customs operations, insurance, transport, duties and taxes etc.) relating, concerning or connected to the performance of the Services shall be borne by the Client.
- 3.2. The Client shall ask FGH in advance for indications regarding the delivery conditions and provisions for the equipment and materials to be tested (hereinafter "Products"). FGH shall charge the Client with every possible additional cost, expense and fine suffered by FGH due to Client mistakes in communicating to FGH or to the relevant public authority any relevant information .
- 3.3. The Products shall be transported and delivered to FGH by DDP (Delivery Duty Paid, Incoterms 2010) conditions and shall be returned to the Client under EXW (Ex Works, Incoterms 2010) conditions, except as otherwise agreed upon in writing between the Parties.
- 3.4. FGH shall unload and load the Products on behalf of the Client. FGH's liability under Section 9 below will remain unaffected.
- 3.5. FGH shall not unpack and pack the Products on behalf of the Client prior to the Tests dates, unless otherwise agreed in writing. FGH's liability under Section 9 below will remain unaffected. Should such Products require specific packing or unpacking modalities, the Client shall inform FGH in advance.
- 3.6. Should assembly or disassembly activities be required, FGH shall procure the availability of equipped areas and assistance personnel only in case the Parties have specifically thus agreed in writing. It being understood that such Products shall be sent, by the Client, complete with any components in order to enable FGH to duly carry on the Tests. FGH shall not assume any liabilities as for the correct fulfilment of such operations provided that the Client's instructions on assembly and disassembly shall be followed.
- 3.7. The Client shall provide FGH with all and any information re the internal handling and transport, e.g. the location of the load fastening points for lifting and the maximum size of a transport unit, as well as information in order to safely set -up the Products. Such provision shall mostly be applied in case the set-up required for the performance of the Testing Services should be different from the set-up required in the later final utilization of such Products.
- 3.8. It is understood that the Client shall provide FGH with all and any information re the Products which shall be tested, including but not limited to all the necessary technical data, Tests data, operating information. The Client shall be liable for the correctness, completeness and timeliness of such information.
- 3.9. Should the Service Agreement require FGH obligation to ship the Products after the completion of the Tests, the relevant shipment costs shall be charged to the Client.
- 3.10. In case of dangerous Products, see par. 8 below.

 - 4.2. The Client shall provide the FGH representative ("FGH Representative") with the name and details of the person responsible for the Tests.
 - 4.3. Should the Tests be interrupted or delayed for reasons depending on the Products (by way of example, their fault or unavailability or lack of information about such Products due to Client's liability), FGH shall set a reasonable time period for Client to remedy the situation. Thereafter, FGH shall have the right to ask for damages in the amount equal to the overall price – as specified in the Service Agreement - due to FGH for the said interrupted or delayed Services, with no prejudice to FGH's right to terminate the Agreement and to claim for compensation for any suffered damages and for the refund of any borne expenses, as specified in art. 2.2 above. Any expenses saved by FGH shall be deducted from the amount payable by the Client. FGH's statutory right to claim damages caused by the delay shall remain unaffected.
 - 4.4. Once the Testing Services have been performed, the Client shall be required to recover the tested Products at the earliest, at its own expenses.
 - 4.5. Unless otherwise agreed in writing and in case the Client should not promptly recover the Products in compliance with art. 4.4. above, FGH shall keep tested Products for a maximum of 15 (fifteen) calendar days upon completion of the relevant Tests. Once the said period shall be expired, FGH shall be free to dispose of them as its discretion, e.g. by selling, destroying or disposing of them, at Client's expenses. FGH will remind the Client of said time period and said right of disposal upon completion of the Testing Services. All charges, expenses or costs sustained by FGH for the maintenance and/or destruction of the said goods, and/or waste disposal and/or possible closure of customs procedures (if any) shall be charged to the Client. It is hereby understood that FGH shall assume no liability as for the custody of the said Products if Client is in delay with its obligation under art. 4.4 above. Therefore, during the entire period of the Products stay on premises, shall have no liabilities towards the Client for any deterioration, theft, alteration or damage of any nature whatsoever suffered by the said Products..
- The above provisions of art. 4.4 and 4.5 shall also apply to Products which have been damaged as a result of the performance of the Tests and/or in general to Products which reached FGH premises already incomplete and/or damaged; in such case, the aforesaid 15 (fifteen) days period shall start from the date in which the said Products have been received.
- 4.6. The Testing Services shall be considered fully performed by the Client once the Tests program has been completely performed or, otherwise, when the full completion should become not possible for any reason due to the tested Products or to the Client liability.

5. Terms of payment and invoicing

The Testing Services price and the relevant terms of payment are detailed in the Quotation.

As a general rule, the Client shall pay in advance an amount equal to 100% (one hundred per cent) of such price, except as otherwise provided in the Quotation.

Within 15 (fifteen) days from the receipt of the Quotation duly countersigned by the Client, FGH shall issue the relevant invoice. The Client shall pay the price by means of a bank transfer within 30 (thirty) days. The execution of such advance payment shall be necessary in order FGH to proceed with the Definitive Reservation.
